In the period 29 October - 01 November 2015 in Nuremberg, Germany will take place the 67th edition of the International Trade Fair of Ideas, Inventions and New Products – iENA 2015.

The organization of the event aims to create a platform for direct communication between inventors and entrepreneurs, thus inventions presented have real chances to be included in the economic circuit.

Participation in the international trade fair offers the opportunity to establish long-term partnerships with the associations of inventors from all over the world, to meet with international trade fair organizers and the chance to participate in thematic roundtables organized within the current edition.

It should be noted that the 2014 edition of the International Trade Fair of Ideas, Inventions and New Products – iENA was attended by representatives from 30 countries with over 700 works, and 18% of the inventors had the opportunity to receive concrete offers even during the fair. Also, the fair was visited by stakeholders from 41 countries of the world.

The deadline for application for participation is August 14, 2015.
